

Problem Statement

How might we design a streamlined process for planning group holidays that reduces stress from misaligned schedules and conflicting preferences, enhances communication to ensure everyone feels informed and heard, balances diverse expectations to create inclusive and enjoyable experiences, and provides effective methods for resolving disagreements to maintain harmony and maximize enjoyment for all participants?